DUBROVNIK VILLAGES

Return bus trip from Korčula to Dubrovnik July 18 (to Dubrovnik bus terminal). There will be stops to Ston with its 14th century “great walls”, salt flats and oyster-mussel farming, followed by a visit and feast in Dubrovnik-area village featuring participant lindjo dancing accompanied by a lijerica musician.

LINDJO (ALSO AS LINDO)

In the villages of the Dubrovnik area, a couple dance known as “kolo” or “poskočica” during the turn of the twentieth century began to be popularly accompanied with the lijerica, a three-string, bowed instrument. A musician’s nickname in the local dialect was lindo. The lijerica (alias lindo) musicians played for a multi-figured dance, that was led by a caller, who... Continue reading »

POST-SYMPOSIUM EXCURSION JULY 18

The post-symposium excursion goes to Dubrovnik’s northwest area to Mrčevo, one of the “upper village” areas. In 2009, an association in the “upper villages” was being formed by persons with some memorized knowledge of village wedding customs. Due to the destructive 1990s war in this area, followed by a long reconstruction period, a whole... Continue reading »
